

HB Reavis ranked third largest office developer in Europe

HB Reavis has been recognised as the third largest office developer in Europe by PropertyEU's prestigious annual 'Top Developers Survey'. The completion of 273,000 sq m of commercial space between 2013-2015, as well as the company's impressive pipeline of projects in Bratislava, Budapest, London, Warsaw and Prague, which are set to finish over the next few years, helped the Pan-European developer to secure one of the top spots.

HB Reavis is a fully integrated property developer, applying a unique and highly successful approach to the complete development chain, from identifying investment opportunity through to the design, construction and management of the finished standing asset. The developer has 30 distinct completed developments in its portfolio and 24 in the preparation or construction stages.

Unparalleled amongst CEE developers, HB Reavis has successfully launched development activities in the UK market, with its flagship project 33 Central, and subsequent acquisitions of 20 Farringdon Street and 61 Southwark Street to further strengthen its position in the central London market.

Established in 2006 Property-EU is a leading Pan-European information source for real estate professionals, providing topical research and analysis as well as daily news, interviews, columns and profiles.