

HB Reavis secures triple letting success in London with plug and play offer

HB Reavis, the international workspace provider, has secured three successful back to back lettings with TMF Group, Savills and ExWorks Capital.

HB Reavis welcomes two new companies: Savills and ExWorks Capital into its plug and play space within 33 Central. Savills will use the space at 33 Central to bring together its 120-strong IT team within a single location, helping to streamline its operations and benefit from collaboration from day one. ExWorks Capital, a senior secured debt fund, outgrew their coworking space and relocated to a self-contained, versatile space in HB Reavis' landmark 33 Central, overlooking the River Thames.

TMF Group has relocated their London HQ to 20 Farringdon Street. The multi-national professional services firm partnered with HB Reavis and received a fully bespoke workspace ready for 100+ employees to start work in their new London base. TMF Group joins the building's existing occupiers, including: NG Bailey, RPS Group, The Berkeley Partnership LLP and HubHub.

The plug and play workspaces (20,000 sq ft) offered on a flexible lease term and all-inclusive single invoice, combined with co-work concept HubHub's recent London launch are a reflection of HB Reavis' diverse approach to cater for all business strategies and needs.
